

E - GAZETTE MK II

New Zealand Antique & Historical Arms Association Inc. # 61 February 2016

EDITORIAL

As you will have seen in the previously circulated Quarterly Update the NZ Police along with other government agencies are undertaking a major review of the NZ Firearms administration and Arms Act.

Some of the proposed changes are to be commended, such as centralised administration and training of Arms Officers, web based applications for licences and permits, better data collection and reporting of stolen firearms, which will all lead to a more efficient service provided to the public.

However it is not all good news, with further possible changes to online sales, cost recovery for permits and probably increases in all licence fees as well as penalties.

While it is good of the Police to keep the firearms community advised of what they are doing, my biggest concern is that they will not consult and listen to what our community representatives have to say at an early enough stage in this process.

My thanks to all of you who have contributed to this issues,

Phil

NORTHLAND BRANCH INVITATION SHOOT & CAMP OUT

Held over the weekend of 9 & 10 January the shoot attracted a good number of regular members from Auckland, who tell us that they look forward to this event all year. Some arrived at the range on Thursday and allowed themselves plenty of time for sighting in and plinking, which was not dampened by the torrential rain on Friday afternoon. All tastes were catered for on the Saturday with a variety of team and individual events, including .22, shotgun, centre fire rifle, deliberate and rapid fire at variety of ranges from 50 to 200 metres.

The prize giving in the evening was followed by a spit roast sheep dinner, courtesy of Errol McIntyre, and a Mickey Mouse auction that provided some quality lots, the best we have seen for many a year.

Just a few of the firearms in use at the weekend.

Explosion Naval Museum Of Naval Firepower - UK Visit Part 2

By Bill Lang

This museum site has many layers - historical periods, both peace & war. It dates from 1771 being opened as a powder magazine for HM Navy. Each sailing ship was loaded prior to a voyage at other points with food, water, arms, ships chandlery then was loaded with powder here at Priddy's Hard as a last task. They have created the powder barrow boys moving the barrels out to ships in life size statuary within one of the passages (right). It's almost spooky to stand amongst them.

Above a magazine storing items from the collection, in this case sea mines. Barrel vault brick work above throughout the magazine complex. Built in 1879 the "E" magazine contains approx. 3 million bricks, when filled it stored 4,500 barrels of powder. The storage was huge with many men working in low light wearing no spark shoes etc. with all wooden carts to transporting powder too & fro.

Within the passages & cased displays are many small guns from crude early cannon to machine guns. If you are interested in mortars, RML's, bronze naval guns etc. this place is a treasure trove.

Amongst the cased items is a very rare flintlock cannon firing mechanism (13), made by Grival of Toulon circa 1700. This fits to the gun & once ignited the burning powder runs along the channel to the touch hole. The fold down cover protects the powder from water. The remaining flintlocks date from 1750 with various bar shot types to right (7).

Whilst in the main magazine complex chambers, there was a remarkable variety of shell testing and assembly tools & jigs. In 1849 after safety fears the Powder Laboratory at Portsmouth was rebuilt at Priddy's Hard. The Laboratory examined, repaired & processed explosives, this was the source of the items stored.

Above the main public barrel & breech display area from which an access outside to where larger naval missiles etc. are displayed.

This 15" shell weighs the same as a small car, and would hit Southampton (20 miles) when / if fired from Priddy's Hard in under 30 seconds.

Out side items are scattered around the site so will leave stored items for next article.

4.7 Inch Mark 1XB Gun on Central Pivot Mark XX11 single Mounting.

To right a quick firing forward gun last used only a year ago to bombard the coast off Iraq in support. No information apart from staff on this one due to PC concerns.

113" 1856 Mortar & Bed. This beast was donated by the Royal Armouries in 2000 having come from one the Portsmouth Hill Forts. Manufactured 1856 by FP & Co, this was capable of firing 2.8 km a 90kg filled shell. Weight - 3,500 kg ?

Right - 4" QE M XVI Naval guns on adapted Twin Mounting.
Range 18.2km AP 17.35 kg, HE 15.88kg, firing rate 15-20 rounds per minute. This unit was built in 1940 & was one of 2,555 produced including Australia & Canada.

Just some of the outside items displayed or awaiting restoration / disposal to other Museums amongst the old complex buildings surrounding the Museum site. Many of these buildings are filled with goodies.

Battle at Ruapekapeka Pa 170th Anniversary Commemoration 1846 - 2016

9 & 10 January 2016

Compiled by Dr John Osborne PhD

Ruapekapeka was the site of the last battle of the Northern War, where about 400 Maori warriors under Chiefs Te Ruki Kawiti and Honi Heke defended the pa against 450 Maori allies led by Tamati Waka Nene, Patuone and Mohi Towhai and about 1100 British and NZ Colonial troops. The British Naval and Colonial artillery blasted the pā with cannons, howitzers, mortars, and rockets, from the 31st December 1845 until 10 January 1846 eventually breaching the massive timber palisades. 23 Maori defenders were killed and about 30 wounded. 12 British were killed mostly sailors from HMS Castor and about 30 wounded.

Ruapekapeka pa, built by chief Te Ruki Kawiti, is regarded as the pinnacle of Maori military design and has been recognised internationally. Hundreds of people from across the North Island — including parties from Northland, Tauranga Moana and Tuhoe, MPs and representatives of the Kingitanga movement — gathered at Ruapekapeka Pa, south of Kawakawa, on Sunday 10 January 2016 to remember the final battle of the Northern War exactly 170 years earlier. Commemorations started at 4am with traditional combat rituals, followed by a dawn service at the pa, 8am breakfast at the Akerama Marae and a challenge to visitors and dignitaries at 11am, speeches, mass haka and the firing of replica c1800 Coehorn mortars.

Dick Travis .303 Nationals 2016

Greetings and a Happy New Year 2016 to all .303 enthusiasts. I sincerely hope you are all fit and well and enjoying the NZ summer. Certainly here in Wellington we have had glorious weather almost too hot for shooting. It was 33 degrees at 4.30 pm yesterday in Hataitai!!

The Dick Travis .303 Nationals are on again in March this year. Shooting is Saturday afternoon of 19th and Sunday until completion on the 20th. The format is unchanged from last year with matches shot over 300/500/600 yards. I am looking to see if it is possible for this competition to be able to use the 800 yard range in the future for a real test of marksmanship. There will be some maths and cone of fire calculations required to persuade the NZ Army that this is a viable option for our fine rifles. I have copy of all the shots fired since we began shooting for the DTVC trophy which amounts to some 3600 rounds fired from the mighty rimmed case. It is fair to say that all the shots fired are within the allowable cone of fire for the .308 NRA target rifles. But NZ Army will require proof of this and I am working on it. As the standard of shooting improves then the longer distances are appropriate and I hope to include these in the program as the competition grows.

Speaking of which, we had 17 .303 target rifles on the mound in 2015. A growing number of riflemen are keen to get behind these historic rifles and be part of an event that neatly combines competitive shooting/participation/commemoration at historic Trentham Rifle Range. It is pleasing to see more rifles coming out of the cupboards. The room for a bit of 'racing' has seen match ammo become the norm and combined with good shooting equipment possibilities have been shot at each distance. Well done to those who have spent some time in preparation for this event.

There are opportunities for those in the Wellington area to have some practice at Trentham:

January

Sat 9 1pm – 300 - a busy day before the Ballinger Belt but a good day to shoot all the same.

Sat 23 1pm – 500 – After BB the range is quiet and this is a very good opportunity to get some trigger time in.

Sat 30 1pm – 600 – Another opportunity to shoot on a club day where Karori Rifle Club is duty club.

February is a mixture of longs and other competitions

March

Sat 5 1pm – 500 – another club day with DTVC host club Karori on duty.

Sat 12 1pm – 300 – a good opportunity to shoot at short range.

Any shooters who intend to come to any of these fixtures must get in contact with Duncan McKee prior to ensure there are sufficient markers for the targets. Le303@xtra.co.nz Range fees of $10 for the arvo.

Entry forms, Course of Fire details, Range Standing Orders and Competition Rules will be sent out shortly.

Please feel free to get in contact with any queries about the 2016 Dick Travis .303 Target Rifle Nationals. Karori Rifle Club is looking forward to being your host once again and ensure you the shooter has a great experience at this growing event.

All the best
